TOWN TOPICS' 35th Christmas Appeal: Your Help Can Be of Major Assistance

She had a full-time job; Mrs. P. did, and lucky to have it, even though the pay was slim. But it did mean she couldn't be home during summer vacation to take care of frail, I3-year-old Maggie.

Afflicted with what they call "multiple handicaps," Maggie was under the caring hand of Princeton's public schools during the school year. And until this summer, the school system had always paid for a special summer camp as well.

But now money was tight. The schools could pay for only two weeks at camp. Mrs. P. certainly couldn't afford a full-time person to care for Maggie. She could, however, take her vacation at the end of summer to be home with Maggie for two weeks.

That still left a gap of time.

In quiet despair, not sure what could be done, Mrs. P. turned to the Family Service Agency, and Family Service turned to the TOWN TOPICS Fund. Money contributed last Christmas by the generous Princeton community paid for the rest of Maggie's summer in that special camp.

It was 35 years ago at Christmas-time that TOWN TOPICS lirst asked residents of the Princeton area to help close the gap that opens for so many, even in this supposedly affluent community. Every year, Princeton responds with warmth, compassion and generosity.

The appeal was begun in 1947 by the two founders of TOWN TOPICS — Dan D. Coyle, a soft-hearted trishman who was often in tears as he sat at his typewriter pecking out the stories supplied to him by Family Service, and Donald C. Stuart, the editor of TOWN TOPICS. Mr. Coyle died in 1973, Mr. Stuart in 1981.

As it has been each year since their deaths, the Christmas appeal is made in their memory.

"Most landlords in Princeton, even the ones with Scrooge reputations, will go along, maybe even for six months, with somebody who just doesn't have the rent," says welfare director Dorothy Kruger, "but Public Service! They don't fool around."

So, when the young couple we'll call the Smiths asked for help, it was help to pay utility bills. Joe Smith had been laid off, there were three small children. As Dot Kruger explains, between the time you're laid off, apply for unemployment compensation and finally see some money, it can be as long as a month.

Meanwhile, children have to eat. You've got to have something to cook on. Municipal officials frown on using candles for light. So Family Service and TOWN TOPICS money paid the utility bill — and there is a happy ending: Joe got another job.

MT. LUCAS ROAD HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE: Firemen from all three Princeton volunteer fire companies battle a blaze which destroyed this two-story home at 350 Mt. Lucas Road Sunday afternoon. In 10 Years Princeton Meadows Has Brought Vast Changes to Rural Plainsboro Township

A dozen years ago you could have said most everything about Plainsboro in one quick paragraph: The population was about 1,600, most of whom, it seemed, either milked cows or picked potatoes for a living. The hottest spot in town was out on Plainsboro Road heading toward Cranbury, where incredible parties were held every night by teeming masses of libidinous ... field mice.

Today the story is not so simple. Plainsboro's population has swollen to 9,000 or so-no one knows exactly because it is increasing every day. Within a lew years it will surpass Princeton Borough and Township in size. And out on a 937-acre tract of land on either side of Plainsboro Road the field mice and potatoes have been supplanted by the Princeton Meadows apartment complexes and housing developments: Fox Run, Deer Creek, Pheasant Hollow, Quail Ridge, and all the rest.

Now 10 years old, Princeton Meadows is home to what must be the greatest concentration of single men and women in central New Jersey, if not the entire state. Its detractors sometimes refer to the place as Sin City, though not always without a touch of envy in their voices.

The management, the Linpro Corporation of King of Prussia, Pennsylvania, does not entirely discourage that notion. The advertising brochures show attractive young men and women, revelling in a bicycle ride, or relaxing over an intimate picnic lunch. "Some people have all the fun," the copy reads, "especially Princeton Meadows

5th Grades May Move To John Witherspoon

What are the pros and cons of moving all fifth grades out of elementary schools and into the middle school?

This Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Princeton High School library, the school board's Program Committee is scheduled to talk about moving the fifth graders next September.

The public is invited to sit and listen, but questions and comments must be held until the meeting of the full board next Tuesday, December 7 at 7:30 p.m. in Riverside School. The board hopes to make a final decision at its December 14 meeting, and public comment will be invited at that time, also.

For the Program Committee this Wednesday, Middle School Principal William Johnson will explain why he thinks a 5-8 grade school would be better grade school would be better than the 6-8 span the middle school has now.

For one thing, as Assistant Superintendent Jamieson McKenzie warns, the middle school will have a "fairly significant" decline in enrollment in '83-'84 without the fifth graders. This could seriously weaken foreign language and arts programs, he says

But if fifth-graders join the school, there can be a double benefit: their presence will strengthen the arts and language programs, and they will be able to start a foreign language in fifth grade, which they cannot do now in the elementary schools.

The Program Committee and, later, the full board, must also weigh the effects of withdrawal on the elementary schools.

"There is no commitment yet," Mr. McKenzie adds, "it's still in the exploratory stage and we're open-minded about the pros and cons."

WHICH BANK CAN CUT THE COMMISSIONS YOU PAY ON SECURITIES TRANSACTIONS BY AS MUCH AS

GUESS.

If you are paying a broker full commission rates on securities transactions, New Jersey National's new discount brokerage service is, decidedly, something you should know about.

Making stock purchases and sales through New Jersey National can save you—depending on the price of the stock and the number of shares—up to 70%* of standard commission charges.

Service is simplicity itself. Your purchases and sales are charged or credited to your NJNB account—and every month you receive a detailed statement summarizing your transactions. Your orders are executed promptly and precisely, and current market quotations are instantly available.

Our ability to offer you brokerage service, through every New Jersey National office, is made possible by our association with Fidelity Brokerage Services, Inc., a well-known and respected member of the New York Stock Exchange. It underscores a commitment New Jersey National has increasingly made clear—to continue to provide every personal financial management service you and your family require.

We can't guarantee that your stocks will go up. We can guarantee—if you're presently paying full commission rates—that your transaction costs will go down.

Delicious Smoked Gourmet Salmon from Pacific Northwest Waters

Fully-cooked, Smoked Salmon

A truly unique Gift Idea...unrivaled in flavor. The ultimate in taste sensation.

Each salmon is a work of art. Each is individually selected, carefully filleted and made 100% bone free. After filleting, the Salmon is soaked in a special brine recipe, placed on racks, put into a smokehouse and slowly smoked over rich aromatic alderwood fires.

More than 24 hours later...and at just the right moment the salmon is removed. After meticulous hand trimming, the salmon is then carefully sealed in an elegant gold foil pouch.

Each is packed in an award-winning designer gift box and included -- free of charge...is a handsome recipe booklet describing various ways to enjoy Smoked Salmon.

No refrigeration is required, nor are preservatives or additives used.

Treelighting Friday

The traditional Christmas Tree Lighting ceremony on Palmer Square will be observed on Friday at 5:30.

The mayors of both the Borough and the Township and Arthur Collins, president of the Collins Development Corporation, will preside over the half-hour ceremony. The apprentice choir of the American Boychoir will be featured, and Penny Reed, the "Spirit of Christmas" in McCarter Theater's production of Dicken's "Christmas Carol" will be on hand in full costume and Everyone is invited. In ease of rain, the ceremony will be held in the lobby of the Inn.

PHS AT FIRESTONE

Agreement Reached Princeton High School will pay $150 a year for an Institutional Membership in Firestone Library and in return, Princeton University will provide five more memberships, making a total of six transferable passes available to PHS students.

The agreement followed a letter to the University from school board president Ann McGoldrick, in which she stated that Princeton High School students have always used Firestone, and asked whether arrangements might be made.

At the beginning of this academic year, Firestone began a new policy of restricting access to the library as a way of controlling book thieves and vandalism. Under the new system, the library charges $20 a month for a pass and $75 for an annual membership.

Mrs. McGoldrick pointed out that the children of University faculty may use Chapel have been edited and Firestone under their parents' membership. Whether six H. Fox. passes will be enough, remains to be seen, she said.

> As Donald Fox notes, the sermons in this book manifest Fred Fox's connection with and love for his own special trinity: the church, the university and the nation. In them Fred Fox, his puckish humor and his earnest likeableness evident on every page, discusses hymns (he knew them all and sang them daily); cartoons poking fun at the church (his favorites were those by Whitney Darrow in the New Yorker) and Christmas cards collection included one to his troops from General Patton).

Always returning to the essential and central nature of faith, he describes in one sermon the arduous journey to England in 1753 by one of Princeton's earliest presidents in search of funds for the struggling young college and he links the holocaust to the crucifixion in another. The one eulogy was delivered at a service of commemoration to President Eisenhower in 1969.

Each sermon is prefaced by a facsimile of the chapel program for the Sunday in which it was given, listing the hymns sung and the lessons Of Chapel Sermans. "Seven read. The text is also Sermon & One Eulogy," a enlivened by Whitney Darrow

TIELP FOR SCHOOLS?

From State Senator. State Senator Gerald Stockman has notified Princeton's school board president, Ann McGoldrick, that he will sponsor legislation removing ronm and board costs for handicapped children from the budget "cap."

For Princeton, the amount is $70,000 for the care of four children.

In the past, the state paid all room and board costs for handicapped children, and part of their tuition in special schools. Last month, state officials announced that because Federal money is now tight, local districts would have to pay all room and board costs.

MAIL EARLY

Post Office Advises. The Postal Service is joining forces with the business community in urging customers to shop early and mail early for the holidays.

Postmaster Earling asks shoppers to shop early and mail early this year and to make certain that mail is addressed correctly (including ZIP codes) and packages are wrapped correctly so that cards and parcels reach their destinations in time for the holidays.

"Normally, we handle about 230,000 pieces of mail a day including cards, letters and packages, but during the holiday season, volume goes up to about 250,000 pieces," the Postmaster says.

The key to successful holiday mailing is to mail early and correctly. Postmaster Earling says that includes planning now for gifts that must travel long distances by Christmas. Many overseas mailing dates including those for the armed forces stationed overseas occur this month.

An Apple from Clancy-Paul for Christmas Day... and all the days after

You can imagine the fun it would be to have an Apple Computer in your home on Christmas Day. Games from our sister store, The Electronic Candy Store, would make for great family enterlainment.

But what about the days after? That's where the genius of an Apple Computer figures in. When the kids go back to school, the Apple Computer becomes an invaluable tool -in fact it's probably the same computer they're using at school. For you, your Apple Computer becomes a bookkeeper or word processor.

And because you bought your Apple Computer at Clancy-Paul, you have the backing of professional instruction, expert service, and our proven integrity.

People in the News

A former student in Princeton University's Department of East Asian Studies has written a cookbook that may well be for Chinese cooking what Julia Childs' books were to French cuisine.

The book is "The Modern Art of Chinese Cooking, published by William Morrow and Company (623 pages, $24.95). It was written by Barbara Tropp who also wrote the Chinese characters that decorate its divider pages.

Miss Tropp was born and raised in a suburban New Jersey town of one Chinese restaurant. For no discernible reason, she says, she was smitten with Chinese things at an early age and decided to study the Chinese language. She was graduated from Barnard College with honors in Oriental Studies and then received a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship to continue graduate work at Princeton in Chinese literature and art

During the course of her graduate studies she lived in Taiwan for two years as an adopted child in two Chinese homes, both headed by superb traditional cooks. returned to Princeton in 1973 and with the help of the Chinese community in Princeton -- particularly James and Lucy Lo-she learned to cook the food she had so much enjoyed in Taiwan. She ran a Chinese catering service here called Orchids before moving to California where she continued teaching Chinese Cooking and began work on "The Modern Art of Chinese Cooking" in 1978.

Philosophy, too. "This is the book I needed when I first set out to cook," Miss Tropp writes in the author's note, is designed for someone who thirsts to know why something does or does not work in the Bayway, N.J., refinery in kitchen. She calls it a "romantic cookbook, filled with the ER&E in 1979 as general poetry, philosophy and art that are an inseparable part of the world of Chinese cooking.' But is is also a thoroughgoing practical workbook, a primer of recipes, techniques and cooking tools - with many line drawings as illustrations.

Miss Tropp devotes the first 100 pages to a detailed discussion of techniques before embarking on the recipes themselves. She includes an essay on pairing Western wine with Chinese food by Gerald Asher and her own thoughts of buying and brewing Chinese tea. There is a glossary of ingredients, a guide for where to buy them in several major American cities, as well as an appendix for food processor owners.

Now that the book is behind her, Miss Tropp plans to open a Chinese bistro in April in San Francisco, mixing light and spicy foods with Western wines and East-West desserts (like the cookbook's). She plans to call it Orchids, after the catering service in Princeton, which she says, originated in the back room of her Graduate College dormitory suite.

Dr. Frank B. Sprow. 282 Mercer Road, currently vice president of Synthetic Fuels Research, has been named vice president, Corporate Services for Exxon Research and Engineering Company (ER&E). He will succeed Dr. Lawrence E. Swabb, Jr., who has announced his retirement.

Dr. Sprow joined ER&E in 1965 with the company's Baytown Research and Development Division in Baytown, Tex., where he held various engineering and supervisory positions. In 1971 he was named head of Commerce-Raw Materials for Exxon Company, U.S.A. in Houston. He became technical 1973, and operations manager in 1977. Dr. Sprow rejoined manager of Petroleum Research and Development Programs, and assumed his present position in 1980.

Dr. Carl A. Price, of the Waksman Institute of Microbiology at Rutgers University, has received a grant from the United States Department of Agriculture to perform a joint research project in molecular genetics. He lives on Wheatsheaf Lane.

Dr. Price, a professor of plant biochemistry, will travel to Dusseldorf, Germany, this month to work with Prof. Reinhold Hermann at The Botanical Institute there. The research project involves the inolecular genetics of chloroplasts. This work will inolecular help to establish a scientific basis for genetic engineering.

While in Europe, he will also be a guest lecturer at the Max Plank Institute in Cologne, Germany, and at the University of Strasbourg in France. In addition, he will visit laboratories in Neuchatel, Switzerland.

Sue Anne Rodefeld of 1 Pasture Lane, Plainsboro, has received a bachelor of science degree in management from the University of Dayton, Ohio.

people." And so you wonder, what incredible things are happening now out on Plainsboro Road?

At the outset, you should realize that you do not need a passport to travel to Princeton Meadows, just a little patience. If you hit the traffic wrong coming or going, you may have to wait four or five turns of the traffic lights at Route 1 and Plainsboro Road and Harrison Street before you get there.

To find your way to the exact apartment building or townhouse you are visiting requires the directional instincts of a rat in a maze. Even more so than with redwoods, these huildings really do all look alike.Residents have acquired their own shorthand-they are either up or down, on the courtyard or on the parking lot side of a building. The architects would turn crimson, but the truth is that Dempster Dumpsters have become important landmarks in giving direc-

The Parking Surprise, Once you get there, grab the first parking place you see. That's a surprise--just like the real Princeton. Princeton Meadows has a bit of a parking squeeze, Arrive at the peak hours and you run the risk of having to park in front of one of the remaining potato fields. Park next to a fire hydrant and you get a ticket--$10 payable to Plainsboro Municipal Court.

Ten years ago you could have described Princeton Meadows as just another garden apartment complex. Today it is virtually a new town: The more than 3,000 apartments are comsingle family homes, at more nis courts, swimming pool, and clubhouse.

Plainsboro Twp. Coping Successfully With Advent of Princeton Meadows

Compared to what has happened to some other communities faced with similar pressures for development, Plainsboro has fared very well with the Princeton Meadows

"If you had your druthers you'd rather not have any development," says Chester Steen, the township clerk and a resident of Plainsboro on and off since 1939. "But the area was ready to be plucked. The only question was whether we would rather have a development of single family homes and an immediate impact on schools or the kind of development we have. Although it's heen a heavy load, it's worked out quite successfully.

Since the advent of Princeton Meadows, Plainsboro has had to increase its sewage plant capacity, expand its police force, beef up its volunteer fire department and rescue squad, and construct a new municipal building (completion date is set for around New Year's)

The tax hurden, though, has remained modest. One house appraised at $1,812.16. A decade ago the same house was taxed $1,144. "We have a very good balance of ratables." says Mr. Steen. "I don't think too many homeowners would complain.

The increased burden on the West Windsor-Plainsboro school system is only beginning to be felt. Plainsboro recorded 103 births last year, compared to 84 in 1980 and 63 the year before that. The school board had just hegun a census to anticipate what new classroom space might be needed in the near future.

With Princeton Meadows' residents now comprising the largest segment of voters in Plainsboro, they might have been expected to take over control of the Township Committee. Not so. Four of the five memhers are long-time Plainsboro residents. Several apartment complex residents have run for election in recent years, but none has succeed-

The biggest problem caused by the development says Mr Steen, has been the traffic tie-ups. Those may be alleviated somewhat by late next year or early 1984, when the bypass road linking Plainsboro Road and Route 1 is completed. In the meantime, Mr. Steen concedes, part of the problem is that "traffic problems are hard to take for people in a rural area who have been around for a long time. We just don't like to wait to get out on the roads in the morning.'

The Complex Scene, For some people the singles scene has worn very thin. A group of jaded Princeton Meadows residents recently fantasized about writing a steamy novel hased on their habitat Someone offered an appropriate title: "Apartment Simplex "

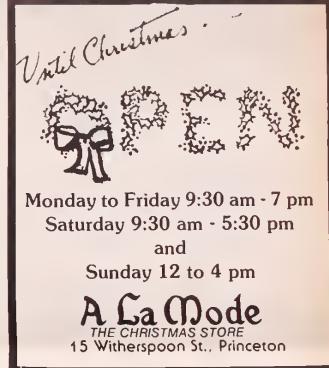

Herpes Simplex and other social diseases are a concern of single people no matter where they live, of course. But in the crucible of Princeton Meadows you can see some of the indicators of the social uncertainty that seems to be sweeping the singles scene.

The monthly newspaper contains advertisements for such services as the Behavior Therapy Center at Princeton Meadows, Linda and William licensed clinical psychologists, offer individual and group programs for phohias, stress management, social anxiety, assertiveness training, depression, smoking, drug abuse, concerns of the single person, and drink, among other problems

One woman moved to Princeton Meadows shortly after her divorce, hoping to meet new people and forge a new life. She did meet people the very first night she went to the Wednesday night dance at the country club. Then she saw those same people Friday night at the Fox Run happy hour and again Saturday night at Good Time Charley's in Kingston. Week after week, those were the outer limits of the singles scene.

Now she has given up and is planning another move, this time to California. She has one other complaint about Princeton Meadows. Amid the plaster and plastic and wood grain formica of her cubicle she encountered the most unexpected guests-field mice. And so she wonders, exactly who is having all the fun?

GROUP FORMING

For Humanistic Judaism. A group is being formed to explore the feasibility of organizing a chapter of the Society for Humanistic Judaisum in New Jersey, Headquartered at the Birmingham Temple near Detroit, the Society for Humanistic Judaism offers what its founder, Rabbi Sherwin Wine, calls "the fourth alternative to Judiasm." The others are Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform. Along with 12 other congregations in the United States, the members of the Birmingham Temple observe their Judaism as a cultural phenomenon, a matrix of traditional music, dance, years. language, history and humor.

Human reason and courage are valued over a supernatural or authoritarian image, and prayer is not used because that implies talking to events for the coming weeks. sale will include plants, white God. TIMELY TIPS with Sam DeTuro Woodwinds Associates

Remember to check your shrub wrappings and mulches, to make sure they will withsuary and February may have to otter

WINTERTIME PRUNING can begin now - it's a good time to start by lopping out the overgrown, overaged stems of lifacs and similar shrubs

CHECK over your stored bulbs of dahlias, gladioli and spread them out for a few days in a dry, warm spot if they show any sign of mildew

KEEP on starting batches of paper-white narcissus and lilyof-the-valley and while you are all II, why not start a few Easter

REMEMBER, you can still feed your shrubs and frees up until the ground freezes. Don't forget to give all your plants and shrubs a good drink of water, too

RESTAURANT CITED For Wine List. Lahiere's Restaurant on Witherspoon Street has been listed by the Wine Spectator magazine for having one of the top 100 wine lists in the country. The only other New Jersey restaurant to he named was a restaurant in Seabright. Leon Christen is the proprietor of Lahiere's, and John Murphy, a former chef at the restaurant, is the general manager. Mr. Murphy says that a copy of the wine list was submitted to the magazine and judged on the basis of its depth, clarity or readability, and the pricing structure. Information on how the wine is stored and the inventory practices was also required.

The Lahiere's wine list consists of 400 wines covering many different countries and vintages. French wines dominate, Mr. Murphy says, although he also says the restaurant has a "vast selection" of California wines to correspond with what he sees as a trend toward

There are several small items which will make delicious gifts at Christmas such as La Cuisine's own preserves, chutneys, cookies, and dried glazed fruit from Australia. The finest assortment of cheeses imaginable could be combined with fruits, cookies and breads in a Christmas basket and sent to a favorite friend or relative. The baskets begin at $15.

Rattan plates with a selection of two to four types of cheeses will make a nice present to bring along to your hostess, as will a crock of American gold caviar! A bag of dark long grain rice from Canada would be appreciated as would a gift certificate from the gourmet shop.

It would be a good idea to stop by La Cuisine for the printed "holiday take-out, sweets, and savouries" sheet which offers an awesome array of hors d'oeuvres, such as: rare roast beef roulades with pate; bacon-wrapped sherried prunes or dates; seedless grapes rolled in chevre and pecans and logs of double smoked salmon wrapped around cream cheese and dill to mention a few. A delicious dessert might include: a sestive buche de Noel; plum pudding; chocolate chestnut torte; or Macadamia nut cream pie. A long list of gifts of food will assist the shopper in making a creative choice, always a welcome gift.

There is no place like home for the holidays as the song goes, especially when everything is in good working order so that home owners will not point of farce. But then one's eyes mist over at a touching and believable scene from Scrooge's past, evoked for him by the ghost of Christmas

Dickens lived these sad experiences. Helped by a firstrate cast sensitively directed, he makes us live them. In 'Charles Dickens: Introduction to the Novels." Princeton Prof. E.D.H. Johnson wrote, "Many actions which would otherwise seem outrageously melodramatic command 'a willing suspension of disbelief' so sharp is the author's eye for the relevant detail and so tangible is its rendering."

Nowhere is this more apparent than in the Christmas dinner scene at Bob Cratchitt's, which is really the heart of the play, pumping blood into its farthest extremities.

Not only could Dickens move from comedy to drama to comedy, without breaking the spell of his story, he did so with amazing speed; and this too, the present production exploits, havings us in tears of sympathy one moment and laughter the next.

Astonishing Scenery, Much credit for this speed of transition must go to the scenery by Brian Martin which, even seen for the third time, is astonishing in its beauty, variety, appropriateness, and swift fluidity;

seemingly effortless way one elaborate scene flows into another without upstaging actors or story. A happy marriage of art engineering.

Good lighting is essential to so spectacular a production and Brian Martin has provided this, with complex, split-second perfection. Elizabeth Covey's costumes and Larry Delinger's music also help create and sustain the play's spell.

And, saving the best Ior last, the cast: There are McCarter favorites in their old roles and in new ones, and some new faces among both the principals and the supporting adults and children. On the whole, this seemed the best deployment of talents so far.

Herb Foster is his own kind of Scrooge: more dried-up than menacing, at the start, which is probably just as well, given the completeness of his rehabilitation. He brings a faint flavor of Gilbert & Sullivan to his early scenes, which children in the packed opening-night house seemed to

Theater Magic, Theater magic is hard to analyze, but there is something about Gerald Lancaster as Bob Cratchitt, and Jill Tanner as his wife, and Cynthia J. Babler as his over-worked daughter Martha, Jonathan Holub as Tiny Tim, and the other Cratchitt children, that knits this family together in a living, loving whole; one we genuinely care about, as they care about each

Penelope Reed is, as in "Carol"s past, a beautifully of Christmas Past, Pas and a charming bubblehead in the party at the home of Fred, Scrooge's Scrooge's amiable but unappreciated nephew, where Scrooge, unobserved, observes parlor games that help reform him

Greg Thornton in many performances at McCarter has always been excellent, and he is again as Fred. The same can be said of Bruce Somerville as Young Scrooge and as Old Joe the rag-buyer; and of Jay Doyle as a prancing Fezziwig and a bawdy old Mrs. Dilber. We were happy to see Leslie Geraci back in the fold as Belle, the girl Scrooge bypassed on his way to loveless Business Success; and stacy Ray as Scrooge's sister, and Fred's wife.

As the two Narrators Darryl Croxton and Michael Plunkett are new, attractive, audible, and unobtrusive. Marley's Ghost comes a bit hard upon the heels of Hamlet's father's, but Robin Chadwick gives him a clinking, clanking impressiveness. Lawrence Holofcener as the Ghost of Christmas Present tripped over a line or two on opening night, but had, or was, the right spirit, and his in-candescent headdress, straight off the Statue of Liberty, is a joy.

Local Children. This leaves unmentioned some good actors and fine performances; but we cannot pass over the local children who are so convincing and appealing; Kimberly Bell and Rona Binenbaum of East Windsor; Eddie Hughes of Lawrenceville: Dana Litvack of Branchburg; and Robert Weed of Franklin Park.

Charles Dickens, with his love for extremes, would applaud this production's use of talents ranging from the most polished professional to least experienced amateur.

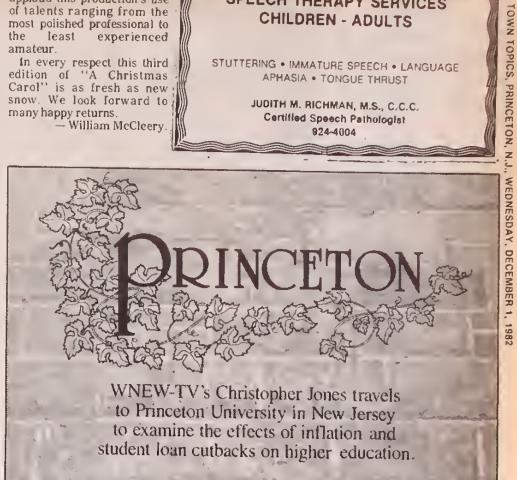

in every respect this third edition of "A Christmas Carol" is as fresh as new snow. We look forward to many happy returns.

That day is never to be, thanks to her joyless marriage to brutal, boorish Oscar Hubbard, who is brother to Machiavellian Ben and conniving sister, Regina. In a world peopled with three such ruthless rebels as the Hubbards, Birdie's wish for happiness has about as much chance of succeeding as a pink party balloon in a patch of brambles.

Thank goodness for sweet young Alexandra (hope lies with youth), heraic but dying Horace, ever-so-ready-to-doright Addie, and of course, Miss Birdie. Without them the gentility of the aristocratic South would have been gobbled up and spit out by the Hubbards of the world, never to be seen again.

"The Little Foxes" is set in 1900 when the southern economy was still struggling and the glad hand of Yankee entrepreneurs, like our Mr. Marshall whom we meet rather briefly and formally in Act I, was eagerly being shaken by Dixie businessmen. Some, excuse me, "trash"

As for individual performances there are some outstanding moments to savor. Jan Maxwell's Regina is positively glacial, without an ounce of the milk of human kindness flowing through her vituperative veins. Oscar, played by Robert Watson, is superbly dull and brutish; and son Leo, the lout, (played thickly by David Weidis) is equally inelegant.

Uncle Ben, the most consistently despicable Hubbard, is played with ramrod-right impropriety by Steven Nelson; his creative interpretations of scripture brought most of the laughs; "God forgives those who invent what they need," he boasts in Act I.

The good guys, a little to be pitied and of aristocratic leanin's, hold up their end of resilience, especially in the conclusion. Birdie, the most (referring to the Hubbards, of pathetic, is believable and ap-

For the Woman Who Has Everything

There are ladies who seem to be so efficient in running their lives and their households that there is barely a gift that they need. Here are a few suggestions for the girl who has everything.

Warnock's has a terrific new computerized timer for cooking. At $35 the triple timer can be programmed to ring not once but three different times as various dishes cook. The price is not high considering it includes a good digital clock for the kitchen.

She will feel like a red siren in a jazzy set of red long underwear from Edith's! The Vasserette undies are trimmed with a bit of red face at the ankle and the neckline.

The Christmas shop at Kale's Nursery has many festive ideas including two Christmas stockings which say "eash only" and "furs and jewels" for the hopeful.

Pottery. Barn Candles. Candles are a big item at the Pottery Barn and a great bargain. Boxes of white and red candles are priced at $3.50 a dozen. Large thick Christmas candles look handsome under the glass hurricanes found at this unique store. Add some holly and ribbons and you have a centerpiece.

A large glass vase is a good buy at $14.95. This year's pattern on mugs, plastie glasses, plates and platters in red or white is a Christmas confetti pattern of snowflakes in the shape of a tree. Mugs with red cherries and red lacquer gallery trays carry out the same theme Glassworks have always been popular at the Pottery Barn, where the variety of glasses for cocktails, wine and champagne is bountiful The own champagne glasses will be sold separately or in sets of six wrapped. The balloon wine glass which is so versatile is a favorite. This year the shop is featuring some art deco wine glasses trimmed in gold.

Final Ivy Football Statistics Offer No Surprises, But Voting for League's All-Star Team Does

statistics and nominations to all-whatever teams, and there is pleaty of both released recently for Ivy League football. In Princeton's case, the statistics bear out the woes of a 3-7 season, while the nominations, or lack thereof, bring some added disap-

Voting by Ivy coaches for the league's allstar teams contained many familiar names, but also a couple of glaring omissions. Because of a tie, three wide receivers were named to the first team all-Ivy, but Kevia Guthrie, who has already set a Priacetoa career record for receptions as a junior, was not among them. Guthrie was beaten out by junior Jack Daly of Dartmouth, and Columbia's Bill Reggio and Don Lewis, both juniors, who were tied in the voting.

Guthrie, an honorable mention selection a year ago, received eight points, good eaough for second team status, but four behind Daly, and two behind the Lion players. He, at least, received some recognition; quarterback Breat Woods got none.

The maa who broke many of Bob Holly's records here, and finished second behind Columbia's John Witkowski in many passing categories did not even rate honorable mention status. Witkowski was voted on the first team, Harvard's Doa Allard made the secoad, and Penn's Gary Vura beat out Woods for honorable mention. Apparently, the coaches were willing to overlook Columbia's 1-9 record in Witkowski's case.

Both Princeton's co-captains garnered first-team nominations, Jon Schultheis winning a leose vote at offensive guard, and Vic Ruterbusch and Pena's Mike Christiaai finishing in a tie for the second linebacker spot, behind Dartmouth's Dave Neslund.

Tae only other Princeton players receiv-

Season's end always brings piles of final ing recognition were offensive guard Rob Haywood and safety Joe Warnement, Both received honorable mention. Overall, Harvard placed seven men on the first team, Pena and Cornell, four each, Columbia and Dartmouth, three each, Brown and Princetoa, two each, and Yale, one.

The team statistics show Woods finishing second to Witkowksi in both total offense and passing. Yale's Paul Andrie nipped Derek Harmon of Cornell in rushing by nine yards, 685 to 674. Columbia's Lewis and Reggio finished one-two in receiving, with 56 and 51 receptions, respectively. Guthrie was third with 49, and Daly, fourth with 36, tied with Tiger fullback Farris Curry

Team statistics aot surprisingly show Princeton second in offense behind Columbia, and seveath in defense, ahead of the Lions. The same order prevails in scoring defense, with Priaceton giving up 30.7 points per game to 36.3 for Columbia, Harvard led ia this category, allowing just 12.6. The Crimson also led ia scoring offense with 27.3

The most telling statistic for the Orange and Black, considering all the talk about its high-powered attack, was its last-place finish in scoring offense. The Tigers managed just 22 points a game ia Ivy competition. Perhaps that's what killed Woods' chances for any recognition.

A pair of mea is the middle will try and lead a turn around for the Tigers next season. Ceater Steve Stearns and sose guard Jeff Urhan have been elected cocaptains for 1983. And in the wake of the most disasterous defeasive seasoa in 113 years of football, Steve Schnall has resigned from Frank Navarro's staff. scoring spurt that saw Princeton run off the next 12 points over the next seven miautes, while holding the Bisons scoreless. The Tigers owned a 14-point lead with 3:30 to play in the half, and Bucknell aever got closer than 10 thereafter.

When Princetoa opeaed up the second half with five consecutive baskets, its lead jumped to 20, and the rest was academic. Carril was able to experiment freely with his press, and substitute freely.

Craig Robinsoa and Gordoa Enderle shared scoring honors with 16 points apiece, both hitting 50 percent or better of their shots from the field. Evea more welcome was the 12 contributed by Ryan, twice his average a year ago. Rich Simkus had six.

Whea Simkus got into foul trouble, Carril wasted ao time getting Howard Levy into the contest, and the back-up center logged 15 minutes of playing time, and scored five

This past Tuesday night, The Orange and Black Princeton faced a stiff test played good defease against Rutgers in New Bruaswick, and Friday and Saturday nights, it will be in Syracuse for the Carrier Classic. In addition to the host team, Alcorn State and Boston University will provide the opposition. The next home game will be played Tuesday, December 7 against Fordham.

By that time coach Pete Carril will have a much better idea how his players are progressing. The offease still aceds more tuaing to avoid the situations last year where the Tigers would hold the ball for long periods only to miss the open shot when it materialized Carril is looking to inject more running into the Tigers' attack, and this would be a welcome modification to the deliberate style of play in past

Off-Target at First. The first 10 minutes of Saturday's game found the Orange and Black seemingly in command, but unable to put the ball in the hoop. Four of 15 shooting from the field got the Tigers off to a shaky start, and they led by no more than two, 11-9, halfway through the first half.

TIGERS EVEN MARK AT 2-2 After Pair of Hockey Wins. After opening its season with two consecutive defeats, the Princeton men's hockey team rebounded with a pair of home ice victories over the Thanksgiving weekend to even its record at 2-2.

Outclassed by Yale in the season's opener and losing to Boston University a week ago Tuesday in Boston, the Tigers took the measure of Brown, 6-3, Friday night, and knocked off Boston College, 4-2, Sunday afternoon. In a week's time, their play had improved noticeably.

The Orange and Black will face two more ECAC Division I opponents this week, meeting Maine Wednesday night in Baker Rink, and travelling to Massachusetts to face Northeastern in a Saturday afternoon contest. Last winter, Princeton knocked off Maine in its own rink, 7-1, but lost to Northeastern, here, 8-2.

In the pre-season ECAC coaches poll, Maine was picked to finish sixth out of six BC to get back in the game teams in the East Division, and Northeastern, fifth. Next Wednesday, December 8, the Tigers will meet Providence, beginning at 7:30 in Baker.

The continued success of the team will rest, as usual, on its ability to avoid giving up the easy scores that leave goalie Ron Dennis defenseless. The majority of the teams on Princeton's schedule can make it pay for lapses on defense very quickly.

Sunday's contest was a good example of the kind of hockey the Tigers need to play in order to win. They kept serious errors to a minimum, kept their intensity level high most of the contest, and scored on enough good opportunities to come out ahead.

Dennis did the rest turning away 38 out of 40 shots on goal by Boston College, making several excellent saves in the process. He had no chance on the two shots that beat him.

Senior center Chuck Huggins continued his fine play, scoring a pair of goals, including the game winner late in the third period. He leads the team in scoring with six points.

His first came with 4:51 gone in the opening period, when he won the face off in the circle to the left of the Eagles goalie, skated in and fired the puck into the right corner. Less than two minutes later, the Tigers made it 2-0 on their first power play opportunity.

They have scored only twice in 12 man-advantage situations so far, but this one worked well, with freshman Pat Brodeur hitting from close range. Tim Oshier and Rob Scheuer picked up assists.

The Tigers' intensity fell off in the second period, allowing with a pair of tallies. The Tigers paid the price for a defensive error less than two minutes into the second frame, when freshman defenseman Mike Donato passed from behind his net directly to a BC forward. He had no trouble beating Dennis.

The Eagles tied the score at the 14:08 mark when a shot from the right point was deflected past Dennis. Both teams had chances in the third period, but the time ran down to less than five minutes before Jim Matthews picked up a loose puck in the BC zone, and fed Huggins, who beat the goalie to the stick side with a 20-foot shot.

The Eagles' pulled their goalie with 57 seconds left, leaving Ed Lee an easy chance to score his second goal of the season unassisted. Princeton took 36 shots

ANOTHER GOOD SEASON Predicted For Hun. Two years ago when Boh Hendrickson took over as coach of the Hun baskethall team, he inherited a sophomoredominated squad and struggled to a 9-15 record.

Hendrickson turned it around in one year. Last year, with a big assist from Mark Murphy, a sharp-shooting post grad student from West Windsor, Hun won both the Peddie and Pennington School tournaments in December, got off to a 9-0 start, and was one of eight teams in the Mercer County Tournament and finished with a fine 18-6 mark.

From that team, Hendrickson loses only Murphy, now a memher of the Lehigh University varsity, captain Kris Wronski, a member of the Bucknell University jayvees, and Bob Spellman, now playing for Skidmore. Nine juniors return, and with them the prospect of another standout season.

'We'll have a senior team, acknowledged Hendrickson. I'm encouraged by the experience the kids have but that could be a problem sometimes when you count on experience to carry you. You still have to have the fundamentals.

For the Peddie Tournament, which will be held in Hightstown next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the defending champion Raiders will go with Andrew Marlatt at center. The 6-3 Marlatt, Hun's football quarterback, is a strong inside player, a good rebounder and will be the tallest starter on the Hun squad.

At one of the forward positions will be the veteran Paul Franzoni, starting his third year on the varsity. The sixfoot senior is perhaps the purest shooter on the team.

Alternating at the other forward will be Stuart Tucker, 5-9, and Sean Couch, a 6-1 postgrad student from New York City and the lone newcomer on the varsity.

For guards, Hendrickson will choose among three more senior veterans, Paul Pintella, Jon Tesser and Gary Marder all under six feet. Others returning from last year's varsity include seniors Dan Forman, Martin Sumners, Nick Amoroso and sophomore Terry Dearden. The two tallest players on the squad arc a pair of 6-4 juniors - Pat Marlatt and Tab Hunter. "We are," said Hendrickson, "going to be playing a lot of people Assets and Liabilities: Asked to list the team's strong points, Hendrickson, without hesitation, listed "our ballhandling ability, knowledge of the game and good team defense." As for any liabilities, he mentioned re-bounding. "We're not big as far as height goes, so we're going to work very, very hard inside and at giving the other team only one shot.

Hun will use a man-to-man defense, reported Hendrickson. "If we have a break, we'll run; if not, we'll resort to our patterns. I'm an advocate of a transition game both on offense and defense.

There have been some schedule changes: Academy of New Church and Lawrence High have been dropped, replaced by three formidable opponents - Trenton High, Admiral Farragut and Pingry. Hun competes in the Class A Independent Prep School league which has no formal structure. "You're playing for tournaments and just for record until you get to the states," observed Hendrickson.

NEW COACH AT WORK

With YMCA Flying Fish.
The Princeton YMCA has announced the appointment of
Loraine Wood, former cocaptain of the Princeton University swim team, as head coach of its Flying Fish Swim Team.

During Ms. Wood's four years on the University swim team, the Tigers captured three Ivy and two Eastern Swim Championships. She began her career at age 11 in the Ridgewood YMCA's competitive swim program and worked her way up into the A.A.U. program.

Ms. Wood wants to improve the lower level instructional program to establish a strong feeder system and thus strengthen the Flying Fish team. She hopes to attract strong area swimmers.

The team competes in the Central New Jersey YMCA League and opens its season this Saturday with meets against the Sommerset Hills YMCA. "The team has en-thusiasm, quality swimmers, and a positive attitude; and we are looking forward to a winning season," she said.
